Ibukun is seated on the ground. There is a small log and a big log on one of her legs.

Ibukun: Help! Someone should please help me. Help.

Lanre: (Comes in) What's the problem?

Ibukun: I can't move my leg. The branches are on my leg.

Lanre: Oh! Sorry. Let me help you. (Tries to move the small branch, but not strong enough). I'm sorry. I will try to get someone to help you. (Leaves)

Ibukun: Why did I have to come here today? I know the rain was very heavy overnight, but it had stopped. I really wanted to enjoy the beauty and quietness of this place. How was I to know that there were many loose branches? (Pauses) Help!

Moni: (Comes in) Eeyah. How did this branch fall on you? Let me help you. (Moves the first one with a little effort. Tries to move the second one but couldn't.) I'm sorry, this one is too heavy for me to move. I have to go now. (Leaves)

Ibukun: God, please send help, someone who can move this heavy branch. I'm in serious pain.

Henry: (Comes in) Sorry o. What happened? Let me help you move this branch.

Ibukun: Thank you. I was walking through when the wind blew and the branches fell on me. Someone helped remove the first one but couldn't remove the second one.

Henry: (Tries to move the branch but couldn't. He pauses and looks up) Holy Spirit please help me to help this person. (Pauses.) Thank you Holy Spirit. (He looks around and sees what he needs. He takes a big stone and carries it to where Ibukun is.) When I lift the branch, push the stone here, near your leg. I will then lift the other side. You should be able to pull your leg out.

Ibukun: Okay.

Henry lifts the log and Ibukun put the stone. He then lifts the other side and she pulls her leg out.

Ibukun: Thank you very much.

Henry: You're welcome. Let me help you to where you can get medical help.
(He supports her, standing by the side of the leg that was injured.)
